

Dean Coughenour, founder of Grass & Grain, passed away on Saturday

Dean Coughenour, founder and longtime publisher of Grass & Grain, passed away on Saturday, September 22. Coughenour, age 83, of Manhattan, died at his residence.

He was born on June 9, 1929, in McPherson, Kansas, the son of Glenn R. and Sarah (Freeburg) Coughenour. Dean was raised in McPherson where he attended local schools, graduating from McPherson High School in 1947. He then attended McPherson College where he studied History and English, graduating with a Bachelors degree in 1951. While in both high school and college Dean enjoyed playing basketball and baseball.

On August 24, 1951, in Waka, Texas, he was united in marriage to the former Verlla Marie Hummer. They moved to Oberlin, Kansas where for the next five years Dean taught English at Oberlin High School and helped officiate at basketball games in the Oberlin area. He then went to work as the managing editor of the Oberlin Herald newspaper for the next two years.

In 1958, they moved to Manhattan where Dean became a partner in the Manhattan Tribune News & Grass and Grain, which became Ag Press. At the time he purchased into the business the firm was located in Aggieville near Kansas State University, eventually moving to their current location on Yuma Street in 1970. Dean was active as owner and manager, retiring from the day-to-day operation in 1986.

A longtime Manhattan resident, Dean served his community as a City Commissioner from 1973 until 1977, and as Mayor in 1977.

An avid sports fan, Dean especially loved playing tennis. He played daily for more than 40 years originally at the Manhattan Country Club where he was a member and later at Cottonwood Racquet Club. He also was a baseball enthusiast and enjoyed researching and keeping statistics on players, especially those who played in the 1940s and earlier. Dean was an avid reader and he and Verlla enjoyed traveling.

He is survived by his wife Verlla, of the home. Also surviving are three children: Tim Coughenour, Lawrence, Ks.; Susan Lundstrom and her husband Greg, Lindsborg, Ks.; and Evan Coughenour, Manhattan, Ks. He is also survived by two grandchildren: Eric Lundstrom and Bebe Lopez, and three great grandchildren: Carter and Beckett Lundstrom and Isis Lopez. Also surviving is his brother Bob Coughenour of Lenexa, Ks. and numerous nieces and nephews.

Dean was preceded in death by his parents.

A Celebration of Dean's Life will be held at 2:00 p.m. Thursday, September 27, 2012, at the Yorgensen-Meloan-Londeen Funeral Home with Reverend R.C. McConnell officiating. The family will receive friends during a visitation from 1:00 p.m. until service time at the funeral home.

Sixth annual Smoky Hill Trail Conference to be held Oct. 19-21

Mike Baughn, president of the Smoky Hill Trail Association, announced recently that the sixth annual Smoky Hill Trail Conference will be held at the Eisenhower Presidential Library and Museum, Abilene, October 19-21. The conference theme is "Abilene, Cowboys, Cattle Country, and the Smoky Hill Trail."

Registration for the conference is Saturday from 7:30 a.m. until noon in the Eisenhower Library and Museum. Registration reopens Sunday from 7:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Baughn said the conference is filled with educational information and entertainment that is completed with a silent auction of items collected from cities along the trail. The public is invited to attend any or all of the conference. Attendees are offered a choice of a full conference fee or a daily fee.

The Smoky Hill Trail Association is a non-profit organization established in 1997. Its purpose is to preserve the historical legacy of the Smoky Hill Trail, promote its designation as a National Historic Trail and interpret the events, remnants and locations that represent the historic trail, Butterfield's Overland Despatch (B.O.D.), successor freight and stage lines and the railway and highways that replaced this important overland trail.

Remember the Smoky Hill Trail

The trail starts in Atchison and Leavenworth to Junction City and on to the Denver gold fields.

Friday evening a Welcome Gathering features "Prairie Larkspur." This music group performs music of the 1890s using many instruments such as pioneers used while travelling west. This event will take place at the historic Union Pacific Depot in Abilene.

The conference gets under way in earnest Saturday at 8:00 a.m. when Jim Gray, Ellsworth, presents "Kansas Cattle Towns." Jim is a sixth generation Kansan, author and tour guide. Jeff Sheets, Director of the Dickinson County Historical Society will enlighten the group with "Abilene: The Wildest and Wooliest Town in the West." Retired teacher and librarian Sandra Wiechert, Lawrence, will give a talk on "Captured: Kansas Pioneer Women Held in Indian Captivity." Sandra is a Kansas Humanities Council leader for Talk About Literature in Kansas.

Saturday's full slate includes the Fort Riley Commanding General's Mounted Color Guard Demonstration Team at the Dickinson County Historical Museum; a bus tour of the Smoky Hill Trail stage station sites near Abilene, and Abilene trolley tours.

The banquet will commence at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the indoor courtyard of the Eisenhower Library and Museum. Marla Matkin, featured speaker, will present a one-woman, first-person program entitled "Cattle Towns and Soiled Doves." Marla is a living historian and independent scholar.

The conference concludes on Sunday with a ride on the Smoky Valley excursion train following a presentation entitled "Purveyor of the Past" by Joe Basso. Joe is a retired history teacher who has researched living history topics from the Middle Ages to World War II. He is currently a biographical researcher for the 62nd New York State Volunteer Infantry regiment of Civil War re-enactors based in Australia.

Conference registration is $40 per person. A one-day registration fee is offered for $20 per person. For a full list of activities and cost, contact secretary Jody Zeman at 785-259-0725 or jodyzeman@rural-tel.net or check out the website www.smokyhilltrail.com.

The grand champion market goat at the Riley County Fair was shown by Mikayla Winter, Leonardville Hustlers, who also earned senior champion showman honors.

Schwieterman Market Outlook

A marketing commentary by Bret Crotts

USDA announced that starting with the January supply and demand report, the major reports released at 7:30 AM CT will now be released at 11:00 AM CT. I don't know why they bothered to move the reports since the markets will be open at either time. USDA said it had to do with increasing the market liquidity when the reports were released, which to me translates to "traders don't want to get out of bed."

Friday the 28th USDA will release the September Quarterly Stock report and the regular old 7:30 time and I expect to see a great deal of chaos at 7:30 because of USDA's history of releasing bizarre numbers in these reports. There was a large amount of corn harvested in August, which makes USDA's job of counting what is old crop and what is new crop a little more difficult. In the September supply and demand report USDA cut old crop feed usage and increased ending stocks to help explain the early harvested bushels. That was perhaps a warning shot that the ending stocks figures was going to be higher yet when the Quarterly Stocks report was released. If the stocks figure does come in higher, at say 1.300 billion bushels, what will that mean for the October supply and demand report? Old crop ending stocks will have to be increased to 1.300 billion and then either old crop production will have to be increased or demand will have to be decreased to explain the ending stocks. Logic is thrown out the window in both cases because it is new crop production that is causing the change and not anything to do with the old crop. Then the question arises as to how they will handle the new crop numbers? Will new crop production be reduced to compensate for the higher old crop stocks, or will demand be artificially increased? There is also, I suppose, the possibility that they get the count correct and what if old crop stocks are reduced? The point is that USDA is making it very difficult to compare supply and demand numbers from year to year when they make these crazy adjustments. All we can do is use the numbers they give us and prepare for volatility.

This week the grain markets were under pressure and in the case of the corn and soybeans it seemed to be an extension of last Friday's poor close. Last week the December corn stalled out and the 50-day moving average and the November soybeans posted a reversal lower. Sunday night the trade started off weaker and things seemed to snowball from there. The December corn really didn't see much selling after Monday's sharp drop, but the market did lose 33 3/4 cents for the week. The November soybeans on the other hand had a limit lower move Monday and an outside day down on the chart with a 50 cent loss on Thursday. For the week the November beans lost $1.174.

All that weakness in the soybeans came in the face of consistently bullish demand news through the week. After the next export sales report we will have sold 75% of the year's commitments, which means that the market is doing a poor job of slowing demand. This price break will only exacerbate the problem.

Only 10% of the soybean crop has been harvested, but there are those that believe some of the yields are enough better than expected that USDA will increase the production estimate in the October supply and demand report. There are also analysts that believe FSA data suggests we will have a higher planted acreage figure in the report as well. The fear of higher production is one of the reasons that the beans were under pressure, which makes sense, especially since harvest activity is increasing and fresh supply is coming on the market. However, even if production were increased by 100 - 200 million bushels, demand would still have to be cut a great deal from recent levels and we would still have very tight stocks. Basically, whatever we raise we will use and it would be very wise for end users to take advantage of this break in prices because supplies will be very scarce 8-10 months from now.

As for the wheat, the December KW was down 21 3/4 for the week thanks to Monday's nearly 50 cent break.

After Monday the wheat market fared pretty well. The facts remain that the Russians are running out of wheat and it is still dry in the HRW Belt. The job of the wheat market is to keep itself out of the feed mix because it is very likely that we will see export improve in the winter and spring and we really won't have much wheat to spare for feed usage. Plus, conditions need to improve drastically to get a decent crop next year and the fundamentals are getting to the point that we need to have a good crop next year to avoid supplies getting any tighter.

Wabaunsee County Ranch and Range Tour slated for October 6

The cattle on feed report was friendly, especially for the February live cattle contract and forward. The on feed number came in at 99%, but still at one of the highest numbers we have had for September. Placements were at the very low end of expectations at 89% and the third lowest ever for the month of August. Placement of light weight cattle were down 33% from last year. Marketing were slower than expected at 95%. We are definitely building the case for tighter supplies after the first of the year, which will keep support under the deferred live cattle contracts.

On the charts, the live cattle plunged like the grain markets then went nowhere the rest of the week. Cash cattle trade was lower at $126, which is negative, but the beef market keeps rising. I don't like the lack of follow-through strength this week and I would watch the 50-day moving average support next week. Failure to hold at the support would suggest a move down towards the $125 area in the December contract.

The Wabaunsee County Extension office and Wabaunsee County Cattleman's Association are excited to announce that the 2012 Wabaunsee County Ranch and Range Tour will be held Saturday, October 6th.

Sam and Karen Hinkle will give an inside look at their cow-calf operation while the tour takes in the beautiful Flint Hills' atmosphere. Like so many producers this year, Sam and Karen are concerned about the water supply. Speakers for the day will focus on providing sufficient amounts of safe drinking water for their livestock. They'll take a look at water quality issues and discuss water conservation through the eyes of a watershed district.

Registration with coffee and doughnuts, courtesy of First National Bank of Wamego - Alma Branch, will start out the day at 8:15 a.m. The tour will then begin at 9:00 a.m. with water served throughout the day courtesy of Stockgrowers State Bank.

The event will conclude with a delicious brisket sandwich luncheon from Smoking's BBQ at the Wabaunsee County Fairgrounds in Alma. This lunch is served free for all attendees pre-registered by Monday, October 1st. To register, call the Extension office at 785-765-3821 or e-mail juland@ksu.edu.

Organizers hope you'll make plans to continue your day in Wabaunsee County by attending the Mill Creek Cowboys' Ranch Rodeo and Cowboy Poetry Gathering in Alma for afternoon and evening entertainment.

These events will be held at the fairgrounds and adjoining arena, making this a day in Wabaunsee County you won't want to miss!

Thank you to all of the sponsors who make the annual Ranch and Range Tour possible: Alma Cop, Buchanan & Co, Inc, Concordia Tractor, Inc, First National Bank of Wamego - Alma Branch, Flint Hills Bank of Es-kridge, Flint Hills Stone, Frontier Farm Credit, Grass & Grain, Harveyville Seed Co, JB Pearl Sales & Service, Eagle Bar Ranch, Inc, Legacy Farm Business

Second annual Flint Hills Cowboy Poetry Gathering to be hosted in Alma, Oct. 6

Cowboy poets, artists, and all who love the American West are invited to Alma for the second annual Flint Hills Cowboy Poetry Gathering on October 6, 2012.

“We are pleased to host this event, which showcases the authentic ranching culture and working cowboy heritage found here in Wabaunsee County and the Flint Hills region,” said Abby Amick, Director of Wabaunsee County Economic Development.

The schedule will feature a Ranch & Range Tour early Saturday morning, followed by the Mill Creek Cowboys Ranch

Rodeo and the Flint Hills Cowboy Gathering at the Wabaunsee County Fair Grounds in Alma. During the day on Saturday, cowboy poetry sessions will be held at the Wabaunsee County Fairgrounds at the corner of 9th Street and Grand Avenue in Alma. Noted western artist Don Dane will have a full-color commemorative post-er available, titled “Got Her Dallied.” Concessions will be available by the Wabaunsee County 4-H Horse Club.

The Saturday program will include concurrent sessions where cowboy poets will perform, on such topics as “Cowboy to the Bone, Tall Tale Windies, Spurs and Lace, Rodeo Rhymes, and Had to Laugh or Cry.”

“This event is not a contest, just a time of western family fun,” Abby said. “We invite poets, western musicians, storytellers, re-enactors, and western artists and gear-makers to participate, and we invite people to come out and enjoy the whole weekend.”

For more information, go to www.flinthillscowboygathering.com or contact Abby Amick at 785-765-4655 or abby@wabaunsee.com.

Drought won't dry up Kansas soybean yield, quality contests

Because of drought, yield and quality might be below normal this year, but the stakes are as high as ever in the annual Kansas Soybean Yield and Quality Contests this fall. Thanks to the Kansas Soybean Commission, the highest dryland and irrigated yields in the state each will receive a $1,000 award. In each district, first place will win $300, second will earn $200, and third will receive $100. No-Till on the Plains will supply additional awards for the no-till districts.

Managed by the Kansas

Soybean Association, the contests are open to anyone involved in farming, but there is a limit of only one entry per field. Farmers may enter multiple categories – conventional or no-till, dryland or irrigated. All entries must be entered in the same district, however.

Farmers may enter the quality contest without entering the yield contest.

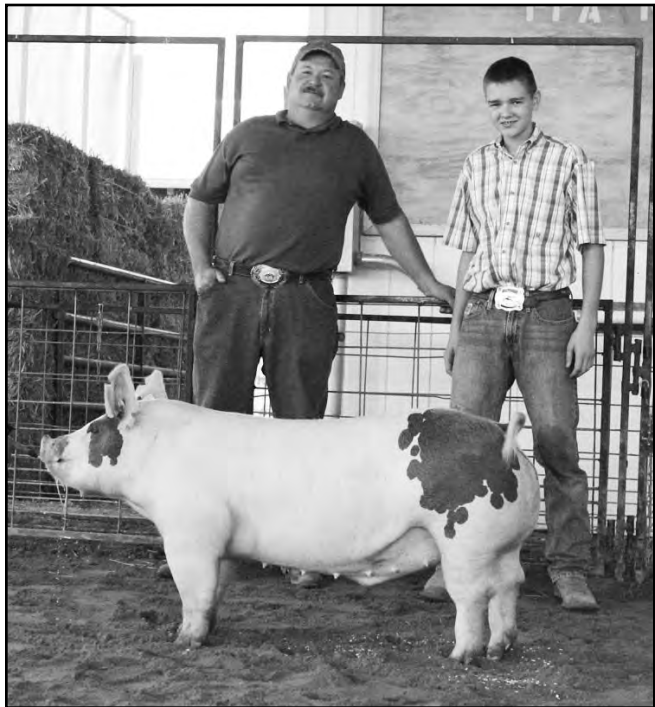

A complete set of rules is available on the Kansas Soybean website (www.KansasSoybeans.org), from the Kansas Soybean office (877-KS-SOYBEAN), and in K-State Extension offices statewide.

K-State Research and Extension is a sponsor. Gary Kilgore, an emeritus professor of agronomy, coordinates the project. He encouraged everyone to consider competing.

"Maintaining yield and quality in a drought year will go a long way toward U.S. food security," he said, "and Kansas soybean farmers are using the technologies that help accomplish that. They deserve recognition for their efforts, and the Kansas Soybean contests provide just that."

The grand champion market pig at the Pottawatomie County Fair was shown by Ethan Sylvester, Westmoreland. Jack Davis served as judge for the show.

Chosen as champion overall breeding heifer at the Pottawatomie County Fair by Judge Clint Woodrow was this heifer shown by Eva Hinrichsen of Westmoreland.

Kansans among Sorghum Checkoff Board appointments

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has announced four appointments to the Sorghum Promotion, Research, and Information Board. “These appointees represent a cross-section of the sorghum industry and I am confident that sorghum producers will be well served by them,” said Vilsack.

Appointed members representing sorghum producers are: David A. Freemark, At-large, St. Lawrence, South Dakota; William J. Greving, Prairie View; Gregory K. Shelor, Minneola; and William H.

Kubecka, Palacios, Texas.

The board is structured so that the state with the largest production is allocated five positions. The state with the second-largest production is allocated three positions. The state with the third-largest production is allocated one position. There are four at-large national positions for which at least two representatives must be appointed from states other than the top three sorghum producing states. The maximum number of producers from one state is limited to six. The appointees will serve terms of three years.

The 13-member board is authorized by the Commodity Promotion, Research, and Information Act of 1996. The Secretary selected the appointees from sorghum producers nominated by certified sorghum producer organizations.

Research and promotion programs are industry-funded, authorized by Congress, and date back to 1966, when Congress passed the Cotton Research and Promotion Act. Since then, Congress has authorized the establishment of 20 research and promotion boards. They empower farmers and ranchers to leverage their own resources to develop new markets, strengthen existing markets, and conduct important research and promotion activities. AMS provides oversight, paid for by industry assessments, which ensures fiscal responsibility, program efficiency and fair treatment of participating stakeholders.

Farm equipment sales up despite drought

(AP) – A new report shows the relentless drought did little to dent retail sales of pricey farm machinery around the country last month.

The Association of Equipment Manufacturers said Tuesday sales of farm tractors were up nearly 15 percent in August from the same month a year ago. Retailers reported selling slightly more than 14,000 tractors nationwide. Sales of combines were up a little more than 7 percent, with 1,099 sold in August.

So far in 2012, sales of farm tractors were up 8.3 percent over the first eight months of last year. But sales of combines were down 11.8 percent.

Davidson to perform songs about Kansas history at Farm Heritage Celebration

Combining a unique blend of songs, Kansas historical facts and pictures honoring the development of the great 34th state, Jeff Davidson will revisit the history of Kansas, and its tremendous influence on western U.S. history at the fifth Annual Farm Heritage Celebration in Parsons on October 5 and 6.

Kansas was host to traders on the Santa Fe Trail, to pioneers on the Oregon Trail, to the pre-Civil War "border war" and the post-Civil War cattle drives which created the greatest American hero – the cowboy. From wagon trains to four-lanes, from cow trails to contrails, Kansas has been, and still is on the leading edge of western U.S. settlement.

Davidson is no stranger to historical entertainment; he has performed at the Kansas 150th Sesquicentennial Celebration in Wichita. He has been one of the featured artists of the Kansas Arts Commission for the past several years. For more information about Davidson and his programs, visit his website at www.jeffdavidsonmusic.com.

The Farm Heritage Celebration is held at Tolen Creek Park, at the U.S. 400/US 59 intersection. All parking is south of the show grounds, please watch for signs. For details call 620-421-6500 or find us on Facebook at Farm Heritage Celebration.

John Redmond No-Till Field Day set for October 2

"Look What's Under Cover... John Redmond No-Till Field Day" will be held on Tuesday, October 2nd at the Dave Slead Farm southwest of Lebo in Coffey County. The event is a collaborative effort of Coffey and Lyon County Conservation Districts, Lake Region RC&D, Kansas State University Research and Extension of Coffey and Lyon counties along with Burlington and Emporia NRCS field offices, several area Watershed Restoration and Protection Strategies (WRAPS) groups, and local businesses.

The field day location is a no-till field on farm cooperator Dave Slead, two miles south of Lebo on Fauna road then 3.5 miles west on 24th Road where several cover crop plots with a variety of plant mixes have been planted. The focus of the field day is to promote the use of no-till agronomic practices that would reduce soil loss from the watershed areas that drain into John Redmond Reservoir. The program involving in-field discussions and demonstrations is scheduled to start at 9:00 a.m. and will include fertility concerns, utilizing cover crops in no-till, viewing planted cover crop plots, rainfall simulator, soil health, and no-till equipment. Wrap-up will include a local no-till producers panel discussion.

Free refreshments and a barbeque lunch will be provided to attendees but pre-registration is needed for meal preparation.

For more information or to pre-register for the event contact the Coffey County Conservation District office at 620-364-2182, extension 3.

The reserve champion market goat at the Pottawatomie County Fair was shown by Ethan Sylvester, Wamego.

USDA announces change in release time of key statistical reports beginning in January 2013

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) and World Agricultural Outlook Board (WAOB) will begin issuing several major USDA statistical reports at 11:00 a.m. Central time beginning in January 2013. The current USDA release time of 7:30 a.m. Central will remain in effect until January 1, 2013. USDA statistical reports affected are: World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates, Acreage, Crop Production, Grain Stocks, Prospective Plantings, and Small Grains Summary. The time for livestock reports currently released at 3:00 p.m. will not change.

Between June 8 and July 9, 2012, USDA sought public comment on the release times for several major statistical reports in response to changes in market hours by major commodity exchanges. Stakeholders submitted 147 comments through the NASS online response site and via letter and e-mail. The comments received may be viewed on the NASS website at http://www.nass.usda.gov/Newsroom/2012/Public\_Comments\_Release\_Times.pdf.

Judge Clint Woodrow selected Shilo Schaake's entry as the grand champion market steer at the Pottawatomie County Fair.

Sell At St. Marys
Sell Or Buy Cattle By Auction
STARTING TIME 11:30 AM
Tuesdays
 We sold 1932 cattle September 18. There was good demand for steer and heifer calves at steady prices. We had a very good run of high quality, green feeder steers and heifers, mostly off grass, which sold $2.00-4.00 higher. Cows and bulls were $2.00-3.00 lower.
