

Kansas water specialists using data to spur aquifer recovery

By Maddy Rohr, K-State Research and Extension news service

Throughout Kansas and the Midwest, you don't have to look far to find folks who believe the future of the High Plains Aquifer – also known as the Ogallala Aquifer – is important to the region. Water is a popular topic of conversation among rural and urban residents.

Susan Metzger, director of the Kansas Center for Agricultural Resources and the Environment (KCARE) and the Kansas Water Institute, notes the Ogallala Aquifer is the largest freshwater aquifer in the world.

"It underlies eight states, including much of Kansas, so most of the water supply for western Kansas relies on the Ogallala High Plains Aquifer," Metzger said. "It is a finite resource, receiving some recharge on an annual basis, but we use the water faster than it can be recharged."

Metzger said conversations about the future of the aquifer often focus on changing individual actions because, as soon as 40 years from now, the aquifer could be 70% depleted. She adds that 40% of Kansas farm acres that depend on irrigation may no longer have sufficient supplies to sustain current pumping rate.

Brownie Wilson, the water data manager for the Kansas Geological Survey, says his organization measures about 1400 wells in the aquifer each January to understand where the baseline is.

"2022 was one of the driest years we had on record in Kansas," Wilson said. "So, what happens is that dry conditions lead to a longer pumping season in our state, and so the water levels didn't have a chance to recover in 2022."

Wilson added that water recharge levels this year in northwest Kansas and west central Kansas have been close to zero, while southwest Kansas has averaged out and been higher than last year.

Earl Lewis, the chief engineer in the water resources division for the Kansas Department of Agriculture, calls Kansas "data rich" compared to neighboring states due to the state's annual well measurements and continued research focused on the aquifer.

He said the aquifer's water levels have stayed fairly consistent since the mid-1990s.

"Back in the mid-1980s, the state of Kansas required that every single (non-domestic) water rights holder submit an annual report to the Kansas Division of Water Resources," Lewis said. "We got to the point of actually installing totalizing flow meters on almost every water right or every well across the state, and that's really rare."

Measuring water use is critical to understanding the aquifer, what is causing the issue and how to remedy challenges, Lewis added. He reminds those with water rights to check their meter reading before the next snow and fill out the state's required report by March 1.

While the water issue in Kansas is large, Lewis said the basics of the issue are simple.

"We're taking out more water than what Mother Nature puts back," he said. "So, your only options are finding a new way to bring more water into the system, or reduce the use of that water."

Lewis said bringing more water to the system would be very difficult to do, so the focus is on reducing overall water use.

Water conservation areas, local enhanced management areas and research have helped farmers reduce overall water use while still being successful in their business.

"Research institutions are helping us to identify those problems and find solutions that have helped these farmers stay productive while using less water," Lewis said.

Metzger said the key to helping farmers remain successful includes a transition in technology. From flood irrigation to center pivot irrigation, and now even more efficient drop nozzles, technology has helped reduce water use.

"It really is putting all those parts and pieces of the puzzle together to find a solution," Metzger said. "This involves using less water as well as figuring out the ways that a producer can do that successfully for their bottom line while still maintaining great food production."

Metzger said researchers can identify the relationships between water usage and aquifer levels. She said all of that information helps officials determine a budget for localized areas.

"With the data set that we've been talking about, we've noticed that the aquifer is remarkably consistent in the way it recovers at the end of the pumping season," Wilson added.

Wilson said the goal is to maintain farmers' ability to feed the world and make a living at the same time.

"It's not an easy task, but it's something that is doable, and we're seeing that on the ground in certain places," Wilson said.

Metzger added the Kansas Department of Agriculture Division of Water Resources and the Kansas Water Institute have additional resources to learn more.

"This is an opportunity to own your future," Metzger said, referring to farmers and Kansas residents. "What you do for the Kansas economy and for the world is so keenly important, and we're here to help you make those changes."

NE Kansas Sheep and Goat School to be held March 13

The term Mob Grazing may seem mean different things to different people, but the benefits to multi-species grazing can be clearly observed when done properly. K-State Research and Extension units from across northeast Kansas will be hosting the annual Sheep and Goat School in Holton on March 13, to discuss this topic and more.

feature speakers and presentations to help those involved in small ruminant production or looking to begin a sheep and/or goat enterprise. Evening activities will begin at 6:00 pm with a sheep shearing demonstration given by Manus Brothers Shearing of Tonganoxie. Matt Young, Brown County Extension agent, will cover the management basics of sheep and goat production. The evening will be capped off by J.J. Jones, agriculture economics specialist with Oklahoma State University, who will give a presentation on the economics of multi-species grazing. Meeting details: Wednesday, March 13, 2024 6:00 p.m. at the Northeast Kansas Heritage Complex, Holton; RSVP by March 11 to: <http://tinyurl.com/NEK->

Youth Tractor Safety Training offered

The Wildcat Extension District will be offering Youth Tractor Safety Training on March 12th at the Labette County Extension Office in Altamont. The training will begin at 9:00 a.m. and will conclude at 3:30 p.m.

Certification from this training will meet the requirements for 14- or 15-year-olds to legally operate a tractor over 20 PTO horsepower for someone other than their parents. This training is open to all youth, although only youth 14 years of age or older can complete the training to receive certification.

There will be a $10 fee for the course which will include materials and lunch. Please contact the Altamont office at (620) 784-5337 for more information and to register for the course.

For more information contact Adaven Rohling, Diversified Agriculture and Natural Resource Agent Wildcat District, at 620-331-2690 or adaven@ksu.edu.

Kansas Hay Market Report

Compared to the last report, demand remains light, and grinding alfalfa prices continue to fall. There are lots of folks still wanting to sell grinding alfalfa, but buyers are few and far between. Producers report that they expect a lot of low-quality alfalfa and sudan to be carried over. Most hay being moved is on previously contracted hay. According to the U.S. Drought Monitor for February 13th, high temperatures averaged about eight to more than 20 degrees above normal. Precipitation of less than 0.5 inches fell across much of the Dakotas, Nebraska, and Kansas. Southwest Nebraska, Kansas, and eastern Colorado saw one-category improvements to long-term drought areas. Short-term moisture deficits have largely been eliminated. The categorical percent area for abnormally dry conditions (D0) decreased to near 22%, moderate drought (D1) decreased to near 26%, severe drought (D2) decreased to just over 2%, and no extreme drought (D3) or exceptional drought (D4) was recorded.

Southwest Kansas
Trade activity is slow. Dairy alfalfa and ground and delivered alfalfa prices are steady. Grinding alfalfa mostly steady, with rounds $10.00-$15.00 lower. Alfalfa: Dairy, $1.35-$1.45/point RFV. Good, Stock or Dry Cow none reported. Fair/good grinding alfalfa, large rounds $160.00-$170.00, large square 3x4's and 4x4's $175.00-$185.00. Ground and delivered locally to feed lots and dairies $210.00-$220.00. Alfalfa pellets: Sun cured 15 pct protein $305.00-$315.00, 17 pct protein $310.00-$320.00. Grass Hay: Bluestem small squares $8.00/bale, bluestem CRP large rounds $75.00/ton. Corn stalks: 3x4's $100.00 delivered. Sudan, large square 4x4's $110.00-$115.00 delivered. The week of 2/11-2/17, 119T of grinding alfalfa and 225T of dairy alfalfa was reported bought or sold.

South Central Kansas
Trade activity is slow. Alfalfa pellet, and dairy alfalfa prices are steady. Grinding alfalfa steady to $10.00 lower. Ground and delivered alfalfa prices $20.00 lower. ## Senator Marshall comments on EPA's announcement of year-round E-15 sales Following legislation introduced and co-sponsored by U.S. Senator Roger Marshall, M.D., the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced it would expand the sale of E-15 ethanol. Starting in 2025, residents in eight Midwest states will now have access to E15 at the pump year-round.

The EPA previously limited the sale of E15 to the winter months.

"It's great to see the administration finally embrace year-round sales of E15 for the Midwest. Higher blend ethanol fuels reduce carbon and tailpipe emissions and help us achieve our goal of a cleaner, safer environment," said Marshall. "Ethanol production supports Kansas farmers, renewable fuel producers, and our oil and gas sector. The approval for these eight Midwest states is a great start, but I urge the administration to take the next step and approve year-round E15 sales nationwide."

BJ Veracious 2160 • 20692320
Sire: HPCA Veracious • Dam: BJ Prophet 5252

A seedstock producer's goal is to present an offering that improves year over year. That has been our goal at BJ Angus since Day 1! Input from our customers keep us on a progressive path to breed functional Angus cattle with value across the entire production spectrum. Our friends and fellow Angus breeders, Travis Sherfick, Sherfick Cattle Co., Wakeeney, Kansas, and Brian Walt, W6 Cattle Co., Collyer, Kansas, are adding to the BJ offering again this year. The entire offering is sired by the leading Angus AI sires excelling in a balance of all traits of economic relevance. In addition to Angus EPDs and indexes, the cattle are also Method Genetics tested.

W6 Cattle Co. is offering an outstanding group of bred commercial heifers, selling with complete Method Genetics EPDs and indexes. Brian is also offering to buy back or partner with commercial buyers on commercial calves resulting from genetics sold in the BJ sale. Complete information will be available in the sale book.

Watch for information updates and plan to join us at the ranch, Thursday, March 14, 2024! This is the most powerful offering we have offered in more than two decades of seedstock production. We look forward to seeing you all in the spring.

Eighteenth YSA class gathers for first session

Young cattlemen and women from across the state met in Topeka February 12-13 for the first installment of the 2024 Kansas Livestock Association (KLA) Young Stockmen's Academy (YSA). Merck Animal Health remains the exclusive program sponsor, partnering with KLA to host members for an in-depth look into the association and the beef industry. A series of four seminars will be held throughout the year in various locations across Kansas.

During their first session, the 20 attendees learned about the array of member services provided by KLA, heard about the importance of being an advocate for the livestock industry, saw KLA lobbyists in action at the Statehouse and took part in the annual KLA Legislative Meeting. Additionally, YSA members attended a Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee meeting at the Capitol and participated in a financial planning seminar conducted by Pinion.

As part of an interactive session led by KLA communications staff, Americus beef producer and industry advocate Jacquelyne Lefler and WIBW-Topeka farm broadcasters Greg Akagi and Slade Wiley, the group was given an overview of various outlets available to help tell the beef production story, as well as how to handle media inquiries. Lefler shared how her experiences led her to become an advocate for the industry and the

Developing FFA's future, one calf at a time – second annual special sale supports Kansas FFA

With trailers lining the streets outside of Heartland Regional Stockyards, a sense of excitement surrounding the special FFA sale, hosted at the selling facility in Plainville on Tuesday, February 13th could be felt. When the gavel fell at the end of the day, 4,737 head sold as a part of the sale, it's safe to say that livestock producers took advantage of the opportunity to support agriculture's future leaders.

Lloyd Schneider, of the Heartland Regional Stockyards, was pleased with the final result. "We are ecstatic with the number of producers that showed up to sell or buy cattle as well as those who showed up to support the event," said Schneider. "Supporting the work of the Kansas FFA and local FFA chapters is important to our team because the FFA teaches and exposes our youth to experiences and knowledge that no other educational organization offers."

Sellers and buyers could donate $1 per head at the sale to support the Kansas FFA Foundation and a local chapter of their choosing. Heartland Regional Stockyards matched 100% of all per-head donations for the sale.

Area FFA members from the Natoma, Logan, Palco, Phillipsburg, Plainville, and Stockton chapters attended to help with the event. Members helped check in cattle, served the meal, catered by TK BBQ, and enjoyed seeing the support of FFA from local livestock producers. Through the sale 12 local FFA chapters received donations to help provide experiences for students. Chapters receiving donations are: Central Plains, Ellis, Hays, Hill City, Hoxie, Logan, Natoma, Palco, Phillipsburg, Plainville, Russell, and Stockton.

Logan FFA member Hayden Gottstine expressed his gratitude for the sale. "It was a great day and I really enjoyed talking to all the truck drivers, farmers and ranchers that came to the sale barn to support FFA," said Gottstine. "I just wish I wasn't a senior so I could be there again next year."

Plans are already under way for the 2025 Special FFA Sale at Heartland Regional Stockyards. Further details of the specific date will be released at a later time.

The Kansas FFA Foundation is grateful to the producers who showed up to support this cause. The future of the Kansas FFA is bright and that is due to the incredible support from agriculture producers in northwest Kansas and across the state. This event was brought to us by a variety of sponsors who believe in the mission and vision of the Kansas FFA.

Sponsors for the event were: 701x Livestock-Rob Paxton-Medicine Lodge, Carrico Implement- Hays, E&E Ag Insurance-Beatrice, KXXX 790 AM Farm and Country Radio, Morton Buildings-Salina, Roy Farms- Palco, Premier Select Sires-Shawn Roy Palco, Heartland Regional Stockyards- Plainville, High Plains Farm Credit- Hays and Phillipsburg, Hubbard Feeds-Beloit, LJ Ranch LTD-Logan, TIMAC- AGRO USA- Tim Bouchey-Zurich, Midland Marketing- Plainville, and TWI Insurance- Cristi Werth- WaKeeney.

To learn more about the Kansas FFA Foundation, visit our website at <https://www.ksffa.org/foundation/> and discover how you can support the future of agriculture.

To consign cattle at Heartland Regional Stockyards, contact their office at 785-688-4080 or Brandon Hamel at 785-434-6280.

2024 American Honey Queen is K-State Student

The American Beekeeping Federation is proud to announce that Kaelyn Sumner was selected as the 2024 American Honey Queen at the American Beekeeping Federation Conference and Tradeshow in New Orleans, Louisiana. Kaelyn is the 21-year-old daughter of Robert and Traci Sumner of Cecil, Wisconsin. She is a senior at Kansas State University, majoring in Agricultural Education with minors in Food Science and Entomology. Kaelyn's interest in beekeeping began in FFA, where she has been nationally recognized for her specialty animal production project and her agriscience fair research. In her spare time, she enjoys crocheting, beadwork, spending time outdoors, and learning more about honey bees. Prior to being selected as the American Honey Queen, Kaelyn served as the 2023 Wisconsin Honey Queen. In this role, she promoted the honey industry in schools, through farmers' markets, fairs, festivals, and media interviews.

Kaelyn will spend the next year promoting the beekeeping industry throughout the United States in a wide variety of venues, including fairs, festivals, schools, media interviews, and virtual presentations. To schedule an appearance or presentation with American Honey Queen Kaelyn Sumner, please contact American Honey Queen Program Chairperson Anna Kettlewell at 414-545-5514 or honeyqueen99@hotmail.com.

LMIC commits $250,000 to KSU dairy barn

The Livestock Meat Industry Council Inc. (LMIC) announced that it is committing $250,000 over the next five years to support the building of a new dairy facility at Kansas State University. This facility would be focused on educating students and training future employees for the dairy industry as well as enhancing research and Extension capabilities in K-State's Animal Science and Industry Department (ASD).

The current dairy facility, K-State's Dairy Teaching and Research Center (DTRC), was built in 1977 and has been home to research and teaching of dairy nutrition, reproduction, health, housing and management.

"The unit provides hands-on experience and research opportunities for undergraduate and graduate students," says Dr. Mike Day, ASI department head. "We're fortunate to have it located close to campus so our students and faculty have easy access to facilities, technology and training that prepares them for work in the dairy industry. Students are involved in various aspects of the dairy operation, including milking, feeding, maintenance, health and wellness, data analysis, and research projects. Today our unit is facing many challenges due to the aging facilities."

Bill Miller, LMIC president, explains, "LMIC is ASI's advisory council and is comprised of leaders across all of the animal agriculture industries in Kansas. The Council recognized the importance of developing a modern, cutting-edge dairy to support the department's teaching, research, and Extension missions. This significant investment will help advance a project that will increase ASI's capacity to educate students to produce future employees for the dairy industry and to train the next generation of dairy scientists. We are excited to see this effort come to fruition."

Kansas cattle on feed down two percent

Kansas feedlots, with capacities of 1,000 or more head, contained 2.39 million cattle on feed on February 1, according to the USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service. This inventory was down 2% from last year. Placements during January totalled 385,000 head, down 23% from 2023. Fed cattle marketings for the month of January totalled 460,000 head, up 7% from last year. Other disappearance during January totalled 15,000 head, up 5,000 head from last year.
