

KFU convention to take place in McPherson January 11-12

National Farmers Union (NFU) President, Tom Buis, Rep. Nancy Boyda, Kansas and Secretary of Agriculture Adrian Polansky, head up a long list of dignitaries to speak at the 2008 KFU State Annual Convention to be held January 11-12, 2008 at the Best Western Holiday Manor Convention Center in McPherson.

The convention will officially convene Friday morning, January 11, at 10 a.m. and speakers will address the convention theme "Fair Trade; Not Free Trade!". Convention delegates will consider and adopt a policy and by-laws statement for 2008 and will also elect officers and board members to steer the KFU for the coming year.

The convention will begin Friday morning with nominations for the various offices of Farmers Union and delegates will consider

Sessions on agritourism planned

Call it what you want — agritourism, ecotourism, or nature-based tourism. Travelers from all over the United States and the world are coming to the Flint Hills of Kansas. And, they are willing to pay handsomely for authentic rural experiences

Flint Hills visitors are looking for such things as farm and ranch vacations, riding a combine cutting wheat, or sitting atop a horse while a rancher moves cattle. They are looking for vineyards and wineries, farm fresh eggs for breakfast, bird watching at a country inn, hiking, biking and riding trails.

To learn more about Agritourism and how it might work for you, there will be two informational meetings. The first will be in Emporia on January 9, 2008 at the American Legion, 2921 W. 12th, from 6:15 pm until 8:30 pm and the second will be in Council Grove on January 10, 2008 at the United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, 21 N. Mission Street, from 1:15 pm until 3:30 p.m.

Abby Cash, Director of Oklahoma Agritourism, will address the characteristics of the clientele, the kinds of experiences and products they want, and how to get started in your business. Second, a panel of Kansas agritourism providers will describe their businesses and answer questions from the audience. Finally, an upcoming business development class will be explained.

For more information on the meetings in Emporia and Council Grove call Jan Jantzen or Bruce Wells at The Flint Hills Resource Conservation and Development Council, (620) 340-0113, ext. 9 or The Kansas Small Business Development Center at Emporia State University at (620) 341-5308.

and adopt policy for the upcoming year. Stan Brown, Midwest Regional Manager for Farmers Union Insurance, will give the annual Insurance Report and Adrian Polansky, Kansas Secretary of Agriculture, will report to the delegates and guests on Friday morning.

Our special guest speaker at the Kansas Luncheon will be Representative John Faber, Brewster Chairman of the Kansas House Agricultural Committee. Friday afternoon during the general session, there will be presentations from Jim Ploger of the Kansas Corporation Commission; Dana Peterson with the Kansas Wheat Commission; and Jere White with the Kansas Corn Growers.

Robert Trewyn of Kansas State University will report on the proposed National Bio-Agri-Defense Facility at K-State and Mike Hoeme with the Kansas Corporation Commission will discuss farm laws in Kansas and on Kansas highways.

A very special Convention Banquet will be held Friday evening at 7 p.m. in the Golden Harvest Room of the Convention Center. Special guest speakers will include Rep. Nancy Boyda and National Farmers Union President Tom Buis.

On Saturday morning at the 7:30 a.m. Washington Breakfast, Katy Ziegler, National Farmers Union Director Government Relations, will give the keynote address. Saturday morning will also include a series of reports. The luncheon at noon will feature Kim Moore, Director, United Methodist Health Ministries.

Saturday afternoon, there will be several interesting reports on issues of concern to Kansans. Robert J. Dumont, President and CEO of Tooling, Manufacturing and Technologies Association (TMTA) and Micheal Stumo, Executive Director for the Organization for Competitive Markets (OCM) will address convention participants on trade issues.

Convention participants may purchase meal tickets during registration and can reserve a room at the Best Western Holiday Manor Motel in McPherson by calling (620) 241-5343.

"Delegates, members and guests should make their reservations early", KFU President Donn Teske remarked. "We expect to have a great crowd this year. We hope people will make an extra effort to attend this special issues-oriented convention and help us chart our direction for 2008." For further information on the convention, call the KFU State Office (620) 241-6630.

Popular no-till conference in its twelfth year

The premier crop production conference in the Midwest comes to the Bicentennial Center in Salina, Kansas Jan. 29-30. The 12th annual No-Till on the Plains Winter Conference has evolved into the most respected "continuous no-till" conference and trade show of its type in North America.

Take advantage of the early-bird discount of $150 ($200 after Jan. 15) to reserve your spot at the 2008 Winter Conference, where you will have the opportunity to visit with other no-tillers from various regions. This year, about one dozen "producer speakers" — each in a different stage of continuous no-till (CNT) with a variety of unique conditions — will offer presentations. In addition, another dozen no-tillage experts — some of the world's foremost authorities in no-tillage systems, will engage the crowd. The all-star lineup features names such as Amado, Anderson, Beck, Bieber, Brown, Cott, Duiker, Forgey, Frenzen, Gadzia, Hatfield, Holle, Humburg, Jasa, Min-demann, Needham, Nichols, Ruwoldt, Smith, Ward, Watson, and Wiltse.

These experts are the most knowledgeable no-till aficionados, and growers will have the opportunity to ask questions, share trade secrets and interact with other attendees, participants and presenters.

Brian Lindley, Executive Director of No-Till on the Plains, comments, "We are extremely pleased to present this line-up. They are a veritable 'who's who' of those involved with continuous no-tillage and conservation agriculture. This is one amazing conference."

Regardless of experience level, the 2008 Winter Conference will meet your needs. Courses are available for all experience levels. Topics include fertility, soil health, cover crops, alternative crops, irrigation, livestock and grazing, carbon sequestration, nitrogen management, equipment, economics, and weed management.

Wayne Smith (one of the speakers from 2007 who wowed the audience with practical, profitable wheat production tips) returns to offer more thoughts on "Achieving the Impossible" — don't miss this talk!

Lindley additionally comments, "With so much positive emphasis being placed on no-till by the public today — whether it be the NRCS viewing no-till as the best method to achieve its goals of erosion control and water infiltration or the Nobel Prize-winning Inter-governmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) recognizing no-till as the best method for sequestering carbon and addressing environmental concerns contributing to global warming

— the future is NOW and no-till is here to stay. All major indicators are that production agriculture will adopt continuous no-tillage as the production system of choice, leaving the rest in the dust."

If you are looking for one event that can make the most impact on your bottom line, this is it. The 2008 No-Till on the Plains Winter Conference will not disappoint. If it has been a year or two since you attended, come back to experience this ever-changing, dynamic event.

For more information or to register contact the office at 888-330-5142 or visit the website at www.notill.org.

Kansas Department of Commerce unveils two new loan programs for agricultural producers

The Kansas Department of Commerce has announced two new loan programs to help agriculture producers who are developing agritourism operations or transitioning to non-traditional crop or livestock production.

The two loan programs — the Agritourism Attraction Development Loan Program and the Diversified Farm and Specialty Production Loan Program — are designed to encourage diversification among Kansas rural producers, who are increasingly incorporating non-traditional activities and production lines into their traditional operations as a way to generate additional income.

"We all know that it's becoming harder for the traditional farmer to remain viable," said Secretary of Commerce David Kerr. "But many Kansas producers are discovering that they can generate new revenue by making their farm an agritourism attraction or by producing non-traditional crops and livestock. These new loan programs will encourage that diversification and allow rural producers to explore new avenues within the ag industry."

Agritourism is defined as the crossroads of traditional agriculture and tourism. Examples include tourists visiting a working farm, ranch, winery or any agricultural operation for enjoyment, recreation, activities, education, shopping, dining or lodging. Non-traditional crops or livestock are defined as those not tracked by the Kansas Agriculture Statistics Service.

Loan program descriptions are as follows:

Agritourism Attraction Development Loan Program

The Agritourism Attraction Development Loan Program is designed to help new and existing agritourism operators enhance their business operations. Agritourism is often described as the crossroads of traditional agriculture and tourism. Examples include tourists visiting a working farm, ranch, winery or any agricultural operation for enjoyment, outdoor recreation, activities, education, shopping, dining or lodging. Applicants must be registered with the Kansas Department of Commerce as an Agritourism Operation. Loan amounts will vary by project.

Diversified Farm and Specialty Production Loan

The Diversified Farm and Specialty Production Loan Program is designed to assist Kansas agriculture producers in transitioning to non-traditional crops or livestock as a means to add value to the farm. Non-traditional crops or livestock are defined as those not currently tracked by the Kansas Agriculture Statistics Service. Projects cannot be an expansion of an existing operation. Applicants must exhibit the potential for the project to generate and sustain additional revenue streams for the farm operation. Loan amounts will vary by project.

For complete loan program information, including guidelines and a downloadable application, visit www.kansascommerce.com or contact BioProducts Specialist Lyle Peterson with the Kansas Department of Commerce at (785) 296-6080 or lpeterson@kansascommerce.com.

NSR seeks junior activities coordinator

The National Swine Registry (NSR) is seeking to fill the newly created position of junior activities coordinator.

The junior activities coordinator will also co-manage the World Pork Expo Junior National and contribute to the planning of the National Junior Summer Spectacular.

The junior activities coordinator will be responsible for processing all show entries and leadership conference applications. In addition, they will oversee the MVP (Mentors Value People) program and NJSA promotions at the National FFA Convention. They will also work closely with the NJSA intern and coordinate activities for the NJSA Board of Directors.

Paragon Perspectives

A commodity analysis by Ryan Broxterman

Wheat

Volatility continues to remain a constant in the wheat market. In recent weeks, 30-cent ranges from highs to lows seem to be the norm rather than the exception. Old crop wheat continues to look strong from a technical aspect, pushing into new contract highs nearly every day last week. Late last week we witnessed considerable old crop vs. new crop spreading in wheat. New crop wheat was pressured this week from the two to four-inches of precipitation that fell across the majority of wheat country. Informa economics estimated US winter wheat acres at 48.7 million vs. 45.0 million last year. They also estimated US 2008 prod near 2,987 million bushels versus 2,594 million last year.

Thoughts: With the recent rains easing the fears of a drought across wheat country it looks like new crop wheat has put in a high for now. July Kansas City Wheat is already sitting 40 cents off of its highs, and looks top heavy. We feel producers should have at least a third of new crop wheat sold and lean more toward 50 percent.

Soybeans

Old crop soybeans continue to look strong. Last week the USDA released its December Supply and Demand numbers. In the report the USDA cut 2007/08 carryout by 25 million bushels, bringing down the total carryout to 185 million bushels. On the demand side of the picture we haven't witnessed many end users backing away from the buying table because prices are too high. The crush continues to remain strong, the November crush came in at 101 percent of the same period last year. Export sales have also remained strong, we are currently sitting 8 percent below last year's export numbers; however, remain 3 percent above the USDA's estimate of 11 percent below last year.

Thoughts: Old crop soybeans continue to look strong. We will continue to hold soybeans as the carrying in the market (premium March contract versus the January contract) is telling us to do so. We feel there is still upside in this market as it doesn't seem the end users have begun to ration to the extent we need. We will continue to hold unsold bushels waiting for a selling signal. New crop soybeans on the other hand looks like it should be hedged at this level. Informa Economics released their 2008 acreage estimate last week, raising soybean acres to 70 million vs. 63.7 million this year. We view selling 15 - 25 percent of soybeans in this area as a good idea. We will likely look to put on fence strategies this week for part of 2008 soybean production.

Corn

Corn futures continue to follow the wheat and soybeans higher. Old crop corn has rallied 40 cents since the beginning of December. On Friday, March corn tested contract highs of $4.43, a dollar higher than the July lows. Support last week came from congress; news that congress may soon pass an energy bill that would increase ethanol production especially after 2010 offered support. In addition, tight old crop wheat stocks and a drop in feed supply in Europe and Australia, plus improved world food demand continues to increase the demand for corn. Informa Economics estimated that US farmers will plant 87.4 million acres vs. 93.6 last year. Informa also estimated US 2008 corn production at 12,854 million bushels vs. 13,168 last year.

Thoughts: Corn continues to look strong from a technical aspect. Old crop corn continues to push higher in order to keep up with the gains in both soybeans in wheat. While we should have plenty of corn this year, a supply disruption next year could pose a problem for end users. A production of 12,854 million bushels (Informa Economics 2008 estimate), likely will not be enough to satisfy demand. We likely will not hedge over 15 percent of new crop before the first of the year as a struggle for corn acres still appears to be on its way. We will continue to hold unsold old crop corn looking for it to continue to follow soybeans higher.

Cattle

Cattle were down last week pushing us below the early December lows in nearly all contracts. Negative packer margins caused Swift to announce slaughter cutback last week, which in turn caused lower cash cattle prices. While in the short term the cattle market looks negative the underlying fundamentals seem positive in that the breeding herd is likely liquidating, meaning less feeder cattle and less beef. Thursday's weekly livestock slaughter report showed heifer slaughter up almost 10 percent compared to last year, and cow slaughter up about 5 percent. This continues the trend seen much of the year that suggests cow-calf operators are not expanding their breeding herds. This expectation for smaller supplies is expected to meet with increased foreign demand (increased beef exports) and firm domestic demand painting a bullish long term outlook for live cattle.

Thoughts: While fundamentals point to higher prices down the road, today prices look as if they could still be in for more downside. We continue to remain short this market, and will look to liquidate shorts when and if it looks as if it is going to turn around. We don't feel the need to hedge cattle out into the summer of next year, but still feel it is a good idea to be hedging feeders for the spring. For those who have yet to hedge all of their cattle we will look for a technical correction to get short both feeders and live cattle.

To Keep the Tree or Remove?

Cleanup from the recent storms will take a while. Fortunately, plants are dormant. This gives us time to prune or have severely damaged trees removed. Please contact me or any Extension office if you need help on determining tree removal.

Some trees look awful but they will bounce back. If they are not a hazard, then leave them and see what they look like in a year or even two. Several tree species are flexible and cope by bending to the ground and then springing back in good growing conditions.

Hazardous trees don't get a chance to spring back. These trees have visible signs of weakness and potential structural failures. They also need a target to land on. Targets would be any people or property that would be affected by the falling of the limbs or whole tree.

Felling a tree isn't as easy as storms make it look. The right equipment and knowledge is needed to do it right and safely. The Extension office has instructions on how but practice is important. Ice and snow is not the best time to learn how to use a chainsaw. If you have it hired out which I suggest, be sure the ar-borist is trained and insured.

Siberian elms, sometimes commonly called Chinese elms, took the brunt of the damage on my property. These trees are ones planted by nature. None were near any targets so no real damage occurred. None have been killed. These trees will respond in spring by putting on a lot of growth to replace what was lost. Much of this growth will be weakly attached and prone to breakage when the next storm occurs.

The goal is to make pruning cuts to direct growth in a positive direction. This will aid in returning the shape of these trees as well as reducing future limb breakage. In my case, all limb breakage is not bad. It was previous storm damage that had supplied the firewood to weather this past storm.

Elm wood doesn't make the best firewood but it is what's available. My hickory, apple, oak, Osage Orange and black walnut which make better firewood had no damage. Any fresh wood needs to dry 6 to 12 months to burn efficiently.

Evergreen wood from pines or cedars isn't very good for fireplace use. It can be used as kindling for starting fires but not recommended for sustaining fires. It puts off sparks, a moderate amount of smoke and less heat units compared to most other woods.

If you have any questions on any horticulture topic, please contact Gregg Eyestone at the Riley County office of K-State Research and Extension. Gregg may be contacted by calling (785) 537-6350 or stopping by 110 Courthouse Plaza in Manhattan or e-mail: geyston@ksu.edu

Ice, snow delay wind farm debut

SALINA (AP) — A winter storm in early December has delayed completion of a wind farm that had been scheduled to begin production this week.

Now, the company says the 250-megawatt facility in Lincoln County should be up and running in January.

"Needless to say, the ice storm and snow last week really threw everything to a grinding halt," said Frank Constanza, senior vice president of corporate development at TradeWind Energy, which is developing the wind farm. "We're at the mercy of the elements."

Hays-based Sunflower Electric has a contract to buy half the wind farm's production. Midwest Energy and the Kansas City Board of Public Utilities also plan to use electricity from the farm. Constanza said Midwest Energy, which is providing the connection that links the wind farm to the electric grid, has shifted its focus to power-restoration efforts since the ice storm.

At the peak of the outage, about 9,000 Midwest Energy customers were among more than 130,000 households statewide without power. The utility had reduced the number of outages to about 600 by Thursday, according to Kansas Electric Cooperatives Inc., a statewide association.

"If the weather cooperates, there's a very good chance we'd have all the towers erected in January and be in full operation," Constanza said.

Bob Helm, a spokesman for Midwest Energy, agreed.

"We're thinking now maybe mid- to late January, depending on how everything works," he said.

The 10,000-acre wind farm is being built in two phases. When the first phase is finished, it will have 56 wind turbines — 260-foot-tall towers with a three-bladed turbine that measures 260 feet across.

In November, high wind toppled the huge crane used to erect the towers. It since has been replaced by an even larger one, which can be equipped to handle loads of more than 700 tons and lifts of more than 300 feet.

Kansas Hay and Grazing confab scheduled for Jan. 16 in Manhattan

The 2008 Kansas Hay and Grazing Conference is scheduled for Jan. 16 in Manhattan at the Kansas Farm Bureau building.

"This conference is for anyone interested in livestock grazing, hay production and utilization, and buying and selling of Kansas grass and hay products," said Gary Kilgore, one of the conference coordinators.

The event's keynote speaker, R.L. Dalrymple, a longtime forage management agronomist with the Noble Foundation in Ardmore, Okla., will discuss crabgrass as a forage and livestock grazing management tool. Dalrymple developed Red River and Quick-N-Big crabgrass varieties and was the principal researcher in developing crabgrass production systems. He produces those varieties in his family seed business that markets in 25 states.

Other topics to be covered will include Financial and Transitional Planning; Hay Hauling and Trucking Regulations; Weed and Brush Control; Improved Alfalfa Traits; Annual Forages; Grazing Steers in the Flint Hills; and Using Distiller's By-Products on Grass.

Additional presentations will include Marketing Organic Hay; Forage Trends in Feedlot Rations; Efficiency in Feeding Hay; Liability in the Hay Business; Using Inoculates and Preservatives.

K-State Research and Extension and the Kansas Forage and Grassland Council are co-sponsors of the event.

The conference begins with registration from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. at the Kansas Farm Bureau building on the northwest side of Manhattan just off Seth Child Rd., at 2627 KFB Plaza. The registration fee is $40 if paid by Jan. 11. It covers a 2008 membership in the Kansas Forage and Grassland Council, conference lunch and breaks, conference proceedings and a 2008 KFGC discount coupon book. Registrations received after Jan. 11 and at the door are $60 per person.

Registration and other information is available by contacting Gary Kilgore (620) 431-1530 or Karen Walters at kwalters@oznet.ksu.edu.

Wheat seminar slated for January 28

Are you making the most of your wheat acres? A seminar coming to Manhattan in late January is designed to help producers do just that — by maximizing efficiency and widening profit margins in the field.

Crop management expert Phil Needham will offer a high management wheat seminar at the Clarion Hotel in Manhattan, on Jan. 28. Needham is the owner of Needham Ag, a crop consulting company that specializes in the application of innovative technology, flexible solutions, and strategic planning. After many years of delivering advanced agronomic services for other companies, Needham now travels the country on a mission to help producers increase their efficiency, yields, and profit margins. USDA data shows that in his home state of Kentucky, average crop yields doubled from 30 to 60 bushels per acre over a 15-year period, with some farmers seeing yields in excess of 100 bushels per acre.

The seminar will begin at 10 a.m. and end at approximately 5 p.m. Registration is open to the public, but pre-registration is recommended because space will be limited. The registration fee of $100 will include lunch, along with a professionally published glossy 72-page color wheat management guide to accompany the seminar.

The registration form for this event is available to download and print from www.kscrop.org. Contact Alana McGough (785) 532-6118, apkcia@kansas.net at the Kansas Crop Improvement Association to request additional information or a registration form.

Angels in hard hats

Angels in hard hats
And bright yellow coats,
Mounted in bucket trucks
Towing tall poles.
Big bobbins of cable,
'Neath floodlights work on
In cold, snow and ice,
Their hours are long!
From many locations
Their addresses are spread.
When the calls go out
To the rescue they're led.
Not overly gentle,
Sometimes they look rough,
But when thousands are powerless
Their actions are enough!
Did God send the ice storm?
I really can't say
But His angels in hard hats
Turn night back to day!
Thanks, linemen! We love you!
