

Kansas Hay Market Report

Hay trade moderate. Demand moderate to strong for stock cow, grinding alfalfa and alfalfa pellets, moderate for dairy alfalfa and grass hay. The shortage of wheat pasture this fall has increased the usage of grinding alfalfa and the supply has really tightened up. Fall grazing of crop residue continues to be good. Supplemental feeding remains light but will be picking up as we move into Winter. There is a good supply of BMR sudan, corn and milo stalks. If you have hay for sale or pasture to rent or need hay or grazing, use the services of the Hay and Pasture Exchange www.kfb.org/hayandpasture/default.htm

Outgoing KLA president Mark Smith, Sharon Springs, reflected on his experiences during his remarks at the Kansas Livestock Association convention in early December. "As a member, I believed I needed to take my turn," he recalled as he described his decision to serve as president. "This industry requires a very strong state and national organization to accomplish what we need to do." He said he would like to see the day when all 105 counties have a county meeting.

Equipped with a new briefcase and about to receive his cowboy hat, Ken Grecian, right, of Palco stepped into the role of Kansas Livestock Association president at the annual convention. "I hope my legacy will be that we turn back the GIPSA issue," he said. He advocates decisions that are based on policy that is principled in science and economics.

KLA members elect ranchers from Graham, Harvey counties

Cow-calf producer and farmer Ken Grecian of Palco is the new president of the Kansas Livestock Association (KLA). He began his one-year term in the volunteer position during the group's annual membership meeting December 3 in Wichita. Joining Grecian on the officer team for the 5,500-member organization is new KLA President-Elect Frank Harper of Sedgwick.

Grecian and his wife, Barb, own and manage a grain and cow-calf business in Graham County. They background calves at home from their Angus-based herd and retain part interest when the cattle are sent to a commercial feedyard. The cattle are sold through U.S. Premium Beef (USPB). Part of the sorghum acreage is used to produce feed for the cow herd. About half the wheat crop is grown and marketed as certified seed.

The Grecians were presented the Grassland Award for Conservation Practices in 2008 by the Graham County Natural Resources Conservation Service. They received the Kansas Master Farmer and Master Farm Home-maker Award in 2002.

Grecian's involvement in industry organizations is extensive. He was the 2005 KLA Stockgrowers Council chairman. Grecian is a member of the KLA Executive Committee, the National Cattle-men's Beef Association (NCBA) Board of Directors and the NCBA Tax and Credit Committee. He currently is serving on the Kansas Animal Health Board. Locally, Grecian serves as Graham County KLA chairman.

He is a member of Kansas Farm Bureau. He has served as president of the Unified School District #269 Board of Education. Grecian currently serves on the local township board and as a trustee for the Bogue United Methodist Church.

The Grecians have three grown children. Son Brent, employed by Wells Fargo Bank, and his wife, Stacey, live in Leawood with their daughters, Faith and Maci. Daughter Jennifer Durbin and her husband Derek, a dentist, live in Topeka with children Taryn, Petra and Blaine. Youngest daughter Stephanie Siders, who works for Country Club Bank in Kansas City, and her husband, Aaron, employed by Commerce Bank, live in Prairie Village.

Harper has backgrounding facilities and grazes cattle on crop residue in Harvey and Sedgwick counties. He and his wife, Mary, lease the majority of their grass from her family in Butler County. They own both commercial and registered cow herds. Calves from the commercial herd are backgrounded and retained through the feeding phase, with some sold through USPB. Harper's registered cows serve as a cooperator herd for Harms Plainview Ranch, a purebred operation near Lincolnville. The Harpers also partner with his parents on a dryland and irrigated farming operation.

in beef industry leadership. He currently serves on the NCBA Board of Directors and as a member of the NCBA Joint Advertising Committee. Harper has served as vice chairman of the KLA Water Committee and on the KLA Policy & Resolutions Committee. He serves on the KLA Executive Committee and is a past KLA Harvey County director. He is a past chairman of the Kansas Beef Council Executive Committee.

Harper is a past member of the Groundwater Management District #2 Board of Directors, having served several terms as vice president. He has served in various leadership capacities with his local Extension board and with the Sedgwick United Methodist Church.

He graduated from Kansas State University with an agronomy degree in 1992. Harper is a 1988 graduate from Sedgwick High School.

The Harpers have two daughters, Annie and Cora. They attend school in the Sedgwick school district.

Western Kansas residents to vote on mega-hog operation

(AP) — Greeley County residents approved a nonbinding referendum in October to allow large hog confinements in their county.

But that vote wasn't good enough to replace laws on the county's books forbidding such operations as the one Seaboard Corp. wants to build in the western Kansas county.

The Garden City Telegram reports a new election has been scheduled for Dec. 21, and if approved Seaboard could go ahead with its plans for up to 120 barns with 1,000 hogs per barn. The company says the new operation would cost more than $30 million and bring at least 18 new jobs to the county.

Greeley County voters rejected such hog operations in 1997 in a non-binding vote, and the next year the county repealed a 1994 resolution that allowed large hog farms.

Kansas Youth Meat Goat Association to hold fundraiser

The Kansas Youth Meat Goat Association is proud to announce that they will be having their achievement night Saturday, January 29, 2011 at the St. Andrew's Parish Hall in Abilene. The afternoon will start off with 2011 officer election interviews beginning at 4:00 p.m. and viewing of auction items. A catered meal, by Ricki's Café will start at 5:30 pm with achievement awards directly following the meal. The meal will cost $8.50 for adults and $5.00 for children under 12. Registrations must be turned in by January 7, 2011. There is limited seating so make your reservations early.

The youth are asking that the public attend the live auction that will start at approximately 7:00 p.m. Auctioned off will be a percentage Boer doe, which was donated by Elk Creek Boer Goats and is being housed by CLCC goats, a king-sized denim embroidered quilt with numerous one-of-a-kind goat designs, donated by Kent Farms. Numerous silent auction items have been donated by various supporters and will be going on from 4:30 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. All proceeds will go to help outstanding youth in the goat industry. All items auctioned off must be picked up that night. For more information and for reservations, please contact Heather Hoover at hoover\_farms3@yahoo.com or call 785-238-8045.

Tri-State Cow/Calf Symposium program to be held January 12 in St. Francis

Succeeding in a Challenging Beef Industry is the focus for the 2011 Tri-State Cow/Calf Symposium and Trade Show to be held on Wednesday, Jan. 12, 2011.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the program starting at 10:00 a.m. and run thru 3:00 p.m. CST at the Riverside County Club in St. Francis. The symposium is held in conjunction with a trade show. Attendees will have time to visit displays throughout the day. The annual symposium rotates between Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado and is a joint effort between Kansas State University Research & Extension, University of Nebraska Extension and Colorado State University Extension. The goal of the symposium is to bring a quality educational program and excellent guest speakers to visit with beef cattle producers about current issues in the beef industry.

The program will begin with a "Systems Approach to Lowering Winter Feed Costs" presented by Aaron Stalker, University of Nebraska ruminant nutritionist. K-State Research and Extension northwest area livestock specialist Sandy Johnson, will discuss the "Importance of and Factors Affecting Body Condition Scoring." The morning will end with a program discussing "Current Issues in Beef Cattle Genetics." Dan Thomson, with the K-State College of Veterinary Medicine, will present "Animal Welfare: More than Checking a Box." An industry panel discussion on "Beef Production in a High Input Environment" will end the symposium. The registration cost is $20 and $15 for the second person from the same operation, on or before Jan. 5, 2011. Registration will be available at the door for $30. Included in the registration fee will be trade show activities, coffee and rolls, meal and handouts from the presenters. For further details contact Marty Fear, Sunflower Extension District livestock agent at 785-332-3171 or Sandy Johnson, northwest area livestock specialist at 785-462-6281.

The program is sponsored by K-State Research and Extension, Y-Text Corporation, Farm Credit of Western Kansas and Western State Bank.

Schwieterman Market Outlook

A marketing commentary by Bret Crotts

As expected the December supply and demand report was rather uneventful. There were just a few inconsequential changes to the U.S. numbers. In the corn, USDA increased the import estimate by 5 million bushels, which in turn increased ending stocks by 5 million. These extra imports would have to come from Canada and really won't have a market impact. In the wheat, the food usage estimate was cut by 10 million bushels due to better than expected flour extraction rates, which is something that we saw happen last year and the year before. Some were hoping to see an increase in the export estimate, and that is certainly possible in the January report. For the soybeans, USDA raised the export estimate by 20 million bushels to a new record high of 1.590 billion and therefore cut ending stocks by 20 million to 165 million bushels. The increase in exports was totally expected since the Chinese buying pace has been very, very strong. None of the changes were market movers and do nothing to change what we know about the markets. Since the report didn't provide any new information, the markets will likely sink into the holiday doldrums and continue on with a couple more weeks of sideways trade. There could be some volatile, low volume days ahead as traders jump around in the face of fresh S. American forecasts, rumors about Index Fund rebalancing, and changes in monetary policy around the globe. Eventually, but probably not until after the first of the year, traders' focus will turn back to ideas that USDA is going to cut corn production in the "final" crop production report in January and that there is going to be fierce competition for acreage in the spring. The corn was basically flat for the week, gaining about a penny. The chart pattern is still higher and the market did make a new high for the move in overnight trade Friday. On the negative side, the March corn stalled out at the 62% retraction of the last move down and has really struggled to hold gains on the days when it does move higher. Technical indicators are not overbought and if the market could get a spark, it seems to me that the market could move sharply higher. The problem, of course, is that we are missing the spark. I've mentioned before that the bulls could really stand to see better exports. This week's report wasn't as good as I had hoped at 671,100 MT of old crop sales. That just isn't enough to meet the current expectations or the get speculators excited about buying corn. We had a big visible sale to Mexico this week, so perhaps next Thursday's report will be better.

From a technical perspective the corn market is really pretty simple. The March corn needs to close above $5.80 early next week and that would propel the market up to the $5.95 area.

Several wheat contracts made new contract highs including the March KW. Unfortunately the gains didn't hold and the March KW finished the week only about 9 cents higher. Technical indicators are overbought and several poor closes suggest that we will see some follow-through weakness. The general trend in global wheat prices is still higher though. The French milling wheat made a new high this week and here in the U.S. the March Minneapolis wheat was higher 17 sessions in a row and made new contract highs four days in a row. Quality milling wheat is gaining value because weather problems around the world may make supplies tight in the coming year. The excessive moisture in Australia and the dry weather in the U.S. are the two major concerns at present. In the short run we may see some corrective weakness in the wheat, but in the long run we will eventually see the Kansas City wheat reach $9.18 and then $10.28.

Surprisingly the soybeans were the weak link. I didn't expect to see the beans be the downside leader considering how strong the demand for soybeans and soybean oil is. Export sales were great again at 637,800 MT. Soybean oil sales were huge this week and will be again next week. The USDA has a history of underestimating soybean exports, and they have again this year, but they are also severely underestimating soybean oil exports. Unless there is a dramatic slowdown, then USDA isn't even in the ballpark. Since it looks more and more likely that the bio-diesel blender's credit will be reinstated, perhaps exports will slow down due to competition here at home, but I suspect it will take higher prices to slow the demand from importers.

The charts look a little weak after last week's performance. There is a definite bearish divergence in the stochastics and RSI, which suggests a little more weakness. I can't rule out a move down to $12.60 in the March contract at some point next week. However, I can't see the weakness lasting very long with the big demand numbers we have been seeing.

The cattle market didn't fair too well. Cash cattle traded mostly at the $101 level in light volume. The futures were weak and it looks like the February live cattle have peaked out, at least temporarily. The big reversal down, following the next contract high, just doesn't look good. The next major support is just below the market at the $104 area. At this point it would be wise to sell the February LC on a $103.40 stop. If the market doesn't take out that level early in the week, then we will see the uptrend resume. The fundamentals of the market are still very good, but sometime it is necessary to take a break.

Sell At St. Marys Tuesdays

Sell Or Buy Cattle By Auction STARTING TIME 11:30 AM

We sold 1454 cattle December 7. There was good demand for calves, and we had lots of weaned, vaccinated calves selling $2.00-3.00 higher. Feeder steers and heifers were $2.00-3.00 higher. Cows and bulls were steady to $2.00 higher. We had a good run of cows Thursday with 381 head selling at our special sale. There was a good crowd and good demand for all classes of cows, prices reflecting age and quality.
