

Lyons, Womack honored by Kansas Agricultural Business Council

The Agricultural Business Council of Kansas City honored two of the region's leading agricultural figures on May 18 at a luncheon in the Chamber Board Room in Kansas City's historic Union Station. The honorees received the Council's highest award, the Jay B. Dillingham Award for Agricultural Leadership and Excellence.

Agricultural Business Council Executive Director Bob Petersen notes the honorees are champions for agriculture in separate but very key areas in the region. The 2022 honorees are Jan Lyons, Lyons Ranch, Manhattan, Kansas, and Dr. Abner Womack, FAPRI-retired, University of Missouri.

Jan Lyons, Lyons Ranch, Manhattan, Ks.

With encouragement and support from her husband, Frank (who worked full-time in town) and daughters, Debbie and Amy, Jan took the reins in establishing Lyons Ranch in 1977 with the purchase of a group of bred heifers and with the selection of a few select Angus cows from top breeders in the state as Foundation cows. By using A.I. and embryo transfer, the Ranch was able to breed to specifications focusing on economically and sustainable maternal traits for the herd.

Lyons became involved in industry organizations early in her career and went on to record several "firsts," serving as the first woman president of the Kansas Livestock Association (1994) and as the first president of the Kansas Angus Association (1981). She has also served as chairman, Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board (1996) and president of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (2004). Beef Magazine named her "Producer of the Year" in 2004 for her leadership during the BSE crisis. In 2008 she was recognized as "Stockman of the Year" by Kansas State University.

John Dillingham addresses the group on behalf of the Dillingham family. He is the son of the late Jay B. Dillingham for whom the award is named.

Dr. Abner Womack, center, is presented his award by Dr. Chris Daubert, Dean, College of Agriculture, Food, and Natural Resources, at the University of Missouri on the left and Bob Petersen.

Today, Lyons Ranch is proud to celebrate 45 years of continuous family ownership and operated with three generations actively involved.

Dr. Abner Womack, FAPRI-retired, Columbia, Mo.

Dr. Womack is Professor Emeritus of Agricultural Economics and co-founder of the Food and Agricultural Policy Research Institute (FAPRI-MU) at the University of Missouri. His work at FAPRI earned him national recognition and built upon his earlier work at USDA's Economic Research Service where he developed econometric models that focused on the structure of the global food system. His work at FAPRI centered on the evaluation of possible econometric consequences of policy options under consideration before the enactment of legislation. He has been recognized by many groups, including:

- American Farm Bureau's Distinguished Service Award (which was received along with Senator Richard Lugar (R-IN), 2014

- Top Producer* magazine named Dr. Womack as one of the 30 "Leaders that Made a Difference: Brave Thinkers," 2013

- USDA's Secretary of Agriculture Honor Award, 2001

- European Union Center, University of Missouri Fellows Award, 1999

- Council of Agriculture Science and Technology's Charles A. Black Award, 1999

- American Agricultural Economics Association's Distinguished Policy Contributor Award, 1991

Dr. Womack holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in mathematics from Auburn University and a Ph.D. degree in agricultural economics from the University of Minnesota.

"These individuals have created a wonderful legacy in their respective spheres – a legacy that will have a lasting impact," said Petersen. "They are great examples of what vision, hard work, and persistence can accomplish."

New livestock show arena to be built at K-State

It was recently announced that Kansas State University is planning to construct a new facility for livestock shows that will include an indoor closed arena with approximately 3000 seats. The 15-million-dollar project was unveiled at the Flint Hills Regional Council Leaders Retreat in Manhattan. The arena will be climate-controlled and also include suite-quality hospitality areas and dedicated judging booths. It will be located east of Denison Avenue near Kimball Avenue, just north of the Manhattan Fire Department, which sits on property owned by the university. The city has a long-term lease until 2035 and there are no plans to relocate the fire station.

A driving factor in the construction of the new facility is limited accessibility and parking at Weber Arena, located near Clafin Road and Mid-Campus Drive. Its positioning makes it difficult for stock trailers to navigate and there isn't a good way for stock to enter and exit.

The new facility will mainly host livestock shows but could also include other types of shows in the future.

Funding for the arena is being privately raised by the Kansas State University Foundation and much of it is already committed. Designs are being finalized and construction could begin by the end of the year.

Young Stockmen learn more about beef marketing, agribusiness

The 2022 KLA Young Stockmen's Academy (YSA) gathered for its second installment of the year May 9-11. Members from across the state spent three days in the Kansas City area touring agribusinesses and beef retailers. Merck Animal Health, the exclusive sponsor of the program, hosted the class at its Lawrence location. Staff provided an inside look at the animal health industry, led a discussion on consumer perceptions of livestock production and gave a tour of their farm research facility. The class visited Costco, HyVee and Whole Foods Market, where they learned more about how customers make meat buying decisions. For a look at the various ways beef is marketed in the meatcase, the group also toured Bichelmeyer Meats and Golden Belt Beef, both family-owned retail meat shops based in Kansas City. YSA had the opportunity to do hands-on cooking at the Culinary Center of Kansas City. Instructed by Chef Bruce Campbell, members learned how to prepare different cuts of beef using various cooking methods, including sous vide, which is the process of placing food in an airtight container and cooking it in temperature-controlled water. Additionally, a stop was made at the Johnson County Community College Hospitality and Culinary Arts Center, where the class toured the five culinary labs, innovation kitchen and pastry kitchen.

The group also heard from Kansas Beef Council (KBC) staff. KBC director of communications Scott Stebner and KBC director of nutrition Abby Heidari explained how they establish relationships with key influencers, such as chefs, dietitians and educators, in order to share the beef message. The class then heard from food influencer Benjamin Fuentes, known as Kansas City Foodie Finds on social media, about collaborating with brands like KBC to share the beef message with his followers. Members of the 2022 class are David Allen, Tribune; Payden Barrett, Grantville; Cece Blythe, White City; Maggie Brakeville, Manhattan; MariKate Crouch, Scott City; Kyle Cure, Cimarron; Mitch Duer, Onaga; Dakota Ferguson, Williamsburg; Blaise Fountain, McPherson; Brandon Frederick, Hutchinson; Grant Glaser, Marion; Dylan Hamilton, Sublette; Michael Olson, Olsburg; Spencer Paul, Manhattan; Shelby Schultz, Miltonvale; Nate Smith, Pratt; Issa Sommer, Cimarron; Tyler Wells, Great Bend; Ethan Wilke, Scott City; and Kristina Zerger, Cheney. The third educational tour for the YSA class will be held in September. Members will visit Kansas beef and dairy operations.

Executive Director - Kansas Dairy

Job title: Executive Director of the Kansas Dairy Commission & Association.
Location: Remote with the ability to travel.

Terms: Full time contract labor.
Salary: Compensation is determined upon experience.

Requirements: Flexibility of schedule, may include some weekends & evenings.
About us: Kansas Dairy is a cooperative effort between the Kansas Dairy Commission and Association with the goal of representing the dairy families from across the state. The Commission focuses on three pillars; education, research and promotion. The Association encourages industry membership and also provides political leadership for Kansas Dairy. Position open until filled, starting date is negotiable.

About the role: The Executive Director is a board driven position and is the primary representative of both of the organizations.

Tractor Safety Course to be held June 7-8

A Hazardous Occupations Safety Training in Agriculture course (tractor safety) will be conducted on Tuesday, June 7, and Wednesday, June 8, at Kan-Equip, 18035 East Hwy. 24, Wamego. The class will run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. the first day and from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on the second day. The cost is $30 which includes materials and lunch both days.

The course is taught by KSU Extension Agents from Geary, Marshall, Pottawatomie, Riley, Shawnee and Wabaunsee counties and is recommended for youths age 12 and older. The course covers many areas of farm safety, including Safety Basics on the Farm, Working with Livestock, Using Pesticides and Chemicals, Grain Bins, Anhydrous Ammonia, Tractor safety, Using Power Take-Off, and Operating Skid Steers and ATVs. Any youth 14 or 15 years old who will operate a tractor over 20 horsepower for someone other than their parent is required to pass the course to be legally employed.

Certification is not required of youths working on a family farm for their parents. However, they are encouraged to attend to learn safety skills on a farm. Youths age 12 and 13 are welcome to participate in the class, but cannot be certified until age 14. Youth 16 years old and older, and adults, are also encouraged to attend.

Two hours of practical tractor experience is also required for certification. A parent or employer will supervise the two hours of practical experience at a later date. Actual tractor driving will not be included in the safety course.

The registration deadline to enroll in the Hazardous Occupations Safety Training course is May 27. Contact the Pottawatomie County Extension Office at 785-457-3319 to enroll or register online at www.pottawatomie.ksu.edu.

Flint Hills Discovery Center Foundation announces Prairie Playscape grand opening May 27

On May 27, 2022, at 10 a.m. the Flint Hills Discovery Center (FHDC) will celebrate the grand opening of Prairie Playscape, a complete renovation of the second-floor children's area. This new exhibit fulfills the original vision of the Discovery Center to enhance the connection of children to the Flint Hills.

The FHDC Foundation has been working towards this renovation since 2019. With more than 60 individual donors, grants, and foundations, and a fundraising goal of $1.5 million, Prairie Playscape is the single largest project to date for the Foundation. No taxpayer money was used.

Prairie Playscape is an interactive, hands-on exhibit for kids. It features three themed areas – exploring the land, working the land, and sharing the land – where children can learn about the Kansas Flint Hills. With 13 new interactive stations, Prairie Playscape will provide endless entertainment and education for children of all ages.

“Prairie Playscape was created to help children celebrate the Flint Hills,” Bruce Snead, Flint Hills Discovery Center Foundation president, said. “The Foundation will be forever grateful to donors who made this project possible.”

To learn more about the Prairie Playscape Grand Opening, please contact Foundation Directors Lesley White at fhdcfoundation1@gmail.com or 785-748-1275.

Wheat Tour estimates crop at 261 million bushels

The 2022 Wheat Quality Council's Hard Winter Wheat Tour across Kansas wrapped up on May 19. During the three days of wheat scouting, tour participants traveled six routes from Manhattan to Colby to Wichita and back to Manhattan. This year's tour hosted people from 24 U.S. states plus Mexico and Canada in 20 vehicles while traveling across the state.

The three-day average yield for the fields that were calculated was 39.7 bushels per acre. While an estimated 7.4 million acres of wheat were planted in the fall, the Kansas wheat crop varies in condition based on planting date and amount of moisture received. What Mother Nature has in plan for the wheat crop still remains to be seen, but the tour captures a moment in time for the yield potential for fields across the state.

The official tour projection for total production of wheat to be harvested in Kansas is 261 million bushels, indicating that tour participants thought abandonment might be higher than normal at 11%. This number is the average of estimated predictions from tour participants who gathered information from 550 fields across the state. Based on May 1 conditions, NASS predicted the crop to be higher at 271 million bushels, with a yield of 39 bushels per acre and abandonment at only 6%.

Overall, the Kansas wheat crop is spotty and short, but the eastern half of the state generally had better growing conditions than the western half.

On the first day of the tour, crop conditions started out above the tour average, but deteriorated as the groups made their way west from Manhattan to Colby.

"Our expectation was the conditions would continue to deteriorate as we moved toward the southwest part of the state. Those conditions were as expected," said Romulo Lollato, Kansas State University wheat Extension specialist. "Maybe the biggest surprise was as we moved east, how long it took for conditions to improve. Those harsh conditions extended well into south central Kansas."

"The west part of south central Kansas was more affected by the drought than we expected," he said. The sandier soils in south central Kansas cannot hold as much water as the soils in western Kansas. Even though the area received more moisture than southwest Kansas, the soils didn't hold the water.

Another surprise of this year's tour was the lack of disease pressure, especially wheat streak mosaic virus. Lollato also said there was little to no insect pressure of concern for reducing yield.

On Thursday, participants had their first opportunity to get their boots wet and see moisture in fields from recent rains in the southern and eastern parts of the state. Yields in this part of the state were better than what participants had seen earlier on the tour, averaging 55.2 bushels per acre.

For fields that have not yet headed out, scouts use an early season formula model to calculate the potential yield of the fields. For the fields that had already headed, attendees were able to use a late-season formula to calculate yields, based on number of wheat heads, number of spikelets and kernels per spikelet. These formulas are provided by USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service. The formulas do not take into consideration variables such as weed pressure, disease and pests. Tour scouts didn't see much disease pressure this year with the drought conditions.

The USDA estimate for the Nebraska wheat crop is 36.9 million bushels, down from 41.2 from last year. The estimated yield average is 41 bushels per acre. The Colorado crop is estimated at 49.6 million bushels, down from 69.6 million bushels last year. The estimate is for an average of 31 bushels per acre across the state. Brad Erker, executive director of Colorado Wheat, estimated the crop at 40.1 million bushels, based on a yield of 28.6 bushels per acre, 1.4 million acres harvested and 30% abandonment rate. Oklahoma reported that the state's production is estimated at 60 million bushels, down from 115 million bushels last year, with 25 bushels per acre yield.

These fields are still three to six weeks from harvest. A lot can happen during that time to affect final yields and production.

The tour is sponsored by the Wheat Quality Council, which is a coordinated effort by breeders, producers and processor to improve wheat and flour quality. Dave Green, executive director of the WQC, said there are several goals of the tour. The first is for participants to make connections within the wheat industry. Another is to "describe the wheat as well as we can at the current point in time, not knowing what will happen over the next few weeks." A third goal is to highlight the agriculture industry.

For more information about what participants saw statewide, search #wheatour22 on Twitter.

BIF Symposium offers virtual attendance option

Registration is open for a virtual option of the 2022 Beef Improvement Federation (BIF) Research Symposium and Convention. This year's event will be hosted June 1-3 in Las Cruces, New Mexico. If guests are unable to attend the event in person, they can register for an online attendance option. Online registration is available at BIFSymposium.com The cost for online registration is $100.

The digital coverage of the 2022 BIF Symposium is sponsored by IGS (International Genetic Solutions), a patron level sponsor of the BIF Symposium.

"We are excited to announce our partnership with IGS to offer online registration to this year's BIF Symposium for our international friends as well as domestic attendees," says Bob Weaber, BIF executive director. "When we transitioned to an online-only conference in 2020 due to COVID we realized the global interest of our BIF program. We want to continue and expand on that relationship by offering this service in conjunction with the in-person event in 2022."

The online registration will allow attendees to "attend" both morning sessions and the awards programs through the zoom webinar platform. Afternoon technical sessions will not be available live. They will be recorded and posted to the BIF Symposium website after the event.

The BIF Symposium features two days of educational programming. The first general session — "Sustainability: Rhetoric vs. Reality"— will feature presentations by Ruairaidh Petre, Global Roundtable for Sustainable Beef executive director; John Crowley, AbacusBio; and Jason Sawyer, King Ranch Institute for Ranch Management associate professor and research scientist. During the second general session the theme will be "Global Perspectives on Adaptation and Genetic Prediction." Speakers Friday will include Tony Clayton, Clayton Agri-Marketing; Billy Estrada, Tres Marias Ranch, Mexico, and Phil George, Miratorg Agribusiness Holding production director, beef and lamb operations, Moscow, Russia.

"The content, engagement, and forward thinking provided through BIF are key to the thought leaders in the beef business. Whether on the ranch or in the lab, making the BIF experience attainable is vital to continued improvements in our sector," says Chip Kemp, director, ASA and IGS Commercial and Industry Operations. "That is why IGS is privileged and excited to play a small part in helping share this year's program."

For more information on registration information and a complete schedule, visit BIFSymposium.com Prior to and during this year's symposium, be sure to follow the event on social media channels using the hashtag #BIF2022.

Each year the BIF symposium draws a large group of leading seedstock and commercial beef producers, academics and allied industry partners. The attendance list is a "who's who" of the beef industry, offering great networking opportunities and conversations about the issues of the day. Program topics focus on how the beef industry can enhance value through genetic improvement across a range of attributes that affect the value chain.

Cutting height impacts hay crop

By David Hallauer, Meadowlark Extension District, crops, soils and horticulture agent

There's a lot that goes in to making a good hay crop. Often overlooked, our cutting height can have an impact on this year's crop – and potentially a larger one on future ones as well.

Advancements in harvest technology over the last 20 years have allowed us to do a much better job of getting as much hay out of the field in a timely manner as we possibly can. We're able to pick up down hay or more quickly harvest heavy hay than ever before. We're also able to cut lower than ever before – and that isn't always a good thing. Forages regrow from two places: leaves using photosynthesis to add more leaves and root systems pushing out new shoots. If both are working up to par, the perennial forage 'system' keeps chugging along from year to year.

When we disrupt that system, problems can occur. For example, if we harvest at a two-inch height instead of three to four inches (minimum recommended for most of our grass forage crops), we remove leaf area vital for forage recovery and requires the root system to compensate. If the root system is in optimum shape, we probably get by with it. If not – problems arise.

We complicate matters when we experience droughts, armyworm feeding or harvest outside the optimum harvest window. In these instances, the crop is stressed and already requiring more of remaining leaf area and root systems. In those cases, further cutter bar height adjustments may be necessary.

When possible, harvest at the optimum growth stage (typically early to mid-June for cool season forages and mid-July for warm season forages) and appropriate harvest height (three inches minimum for established forages – higher for late harvest/drought/new stands). It may reduce quantity slightly – but help with stand health and longevity in the long run.

GoBob and Hampel Oil scholarships awarded through KLF

Corley Becker of Seneca has been awarded the GoBob Pipe and Steel Cattlemen's $1,000 Scholarship through the Kansas Livestock Foundation (KLF). Becker will be a junior at Kansas State University and is the daughter of Dean and Diane Becker. Funding for this scholarship was generated through the purchase of GoBob products by KLA members, plus proceeds from the auction of a GoBob Scientific Hay Feeder and Hay Maximizer during the KLA Convention last December. GoBob is a distributor of farming supplies, such as steel pipe and gates, corral and fencing materials and heavy-duty equipment.

Two students were awarded Hampel Oil $1,000 Scholarships through KLF. Chancy Johnson from White City will be a junior at K-State. She is the daughter of Chad and Janon Johnson. Anna Westerman of Yates Center will be a junior at Fort Hays State University and is the daughter of Matt and Kayla Westerman. These scholarships were made possible by a donation to KLF by Hampel Oil, a family-operated business with six locations in Kansas.

Online training now available for Calf Care and Quality Assurance Program

Farmers and ranchers raising calves now have access to the free Calf Care and Quality Assurance (CCQA) program online at www.calfcareqa.org. The program was developed with an understanding of the diversity of ranches, being science- and outcome-based, while maintaining facility type and size neutrality.

While the practices identified in the animal care reference manual are not the only methods that can meet the desired outcomes, CCQA provides a framework that serves as a resource for anyone working in the calf-raising industry. In addition to the manual, online modules and self-assessment tools, CCQA will release an audit tool later this year. Completion of the online modules provides certification equivalent to Beef Quality Assurance (BQA) certification.

CCQA certification helps ensure optimal calf health and welfare and is the first collaborative educational tool that provides guidelines for calf raisers. The program is a joint initiative led by NCBA's beef checkoff-funded BQA program and the National Dairy Farmers Assuring Responsible Management program, managed by the National Milk Producers Federation with support from the Dairy Calf and Heifer Association, and the beef checkoff-funded Veal Quality Assurance program.

"Certification programs such as CCQA establish guidelines and standards that help earn the public's trust, demonstrating that beef and dairy producers share their values and are committed not only to quality animal care, but also to ensuring safe, wholesome meat and milk," said Trey Patterson, Wyoming rancher and chair of the BQA Advisory Group.

Wildlife Habitat Education Program 2022 Contest

A newly formed Wildcat District 4-H Wildlife Team recently received second place junior team at the Kansas WHEP (Wildlife Habitat Education Program) Competition at Woodson State Fishing Lake in Toronto. The team is composed of Labette County 4-H members Alex Dolechek, Raylan Elsworth, Brian Longan, and Philip Longan and Montgomery County 4-H member Damien Evans. In addition to the team award, Damien Evens received second high individual and Alex Dolechek received third high individual, the team was coached by Labette County volunteer Brian Elsworth and Extension agent Adaven Scronce.

WHEP is a hands-on environmental education program that gives youth the opportunity to test their wildlife knowledge. The ecoregion for this year's contest was the Tallgrass Prairie. In preparation for the contest, the team learned about wildlife in the Tallgrass Prairie, including wildlife terms and concepts, habitat management practices, wildlife damage management, and how to evaluate wildlife habitat.
